Hagerstown Girl Mails Fiancee Egg

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A college student in Indiana has an odd momento from his fiancee in Maryland: A hard-boiled egg delivered by the postman.

George Zimmerman, 19, a freshman at Valparaido Ind. University studying to be a lawyer, received the egg in the mail Monday from Jo Ellen Powers, 18, who's studying to be a legal secretary at a Hagerstown secretarial school.

"I wanted to see if one would get all the way out there," Miss Powers said yesterday. She addressed the egg, put a five-cent stamp on it and gave it to postman Ralph Higgs, whose route includes her school.
